READING

Time: 20 minutes. 19 points

Task 1. Questions 1-5. Read the article about the Mona Lisa and match the paragraph titles 1-5 to paragraphs A-E. 1. Is the Mona Lisa a copy? (paragraph ____) 2. Who really was the Mona Lisa? (paragraph ____) 3. The birth of a painting (paragraph ____) 4. The French connection (paragraph ____) 5. The secret of the smile (paragraph ____) Task 2. Questions 6-13. Read the article again and decide if the following sentences are true (T) or false (F)? 6. Leonardo painted the Mona Lisa about five hundred years ago. 7. He painted it very quickly. 8. The Mona Lisa is a portrait of Vasari's wife. 9. Louis XIV put the painting in the palace of Fontainebleau. 10. The Louvre has not always been a museum. 11. The thief wrote a letter to an American gallery. 12. The Mona Lisa is possibly a self-portrait of Leonardo. 13. You can't see the Mona Lisa's mouth	The Mona Lisa The world's most famous smile – and the world's most famous painting – is Leonardo's Mona Lisa (La Gioconda). But how much you know about her? Who is the mysterious woman and why is her smile so special? A. Leonardo began work on this portrait around 1500 and spent many years working on it. According to the art historian Vasari, it is the portrait of the young wife of a merchant from Florence, but Leonardo never gave him the picture. He kept it for himself. B. Later the French king bought it and put it in the royal palace at Fontainebleau. Centuries later, the French king Louis XIV moved the palace to Versailles and the painting moved too. For a while, Napoleon had it in his bedroom, but the Mona Lisa moved to the Louvre when it became a museum. It has not moved since then, apart from a few years at the beginning of the twentieth century. C. In 1911, the painting was stolen. It could not be found anywhere, but in 1913 the thief sent a letter to a gallery in Italy. He wanted to sell it. But why did the thief wait two years before returning it? During this time, many copies of the painting were made and sold to American collectors. Is the painting now in the Louvre also a fake? Many people think that this is a real possibility. D. Leonardo's painting is extremely life-like, but many experts are not sure that it is a portrait of the woman from Florence. There are many theories, but perhaps the most interesting is that it is a portrait of Leonardo himself. An

very well. Task 3. Questions 14-19. Look at the pronouns in italics in the article. What do they refer to? Example: her (line 6) the Mona Lisa 14. it (line 6) _____ 15. him (line 9) _____ 16. it (line 15) _____ 17. it (line 17) _____ 18. she (line 35) _____ 19. they (line 41) _____	35 41	American expert has compared Leonardo's self-portrait and the Mona Lisa and she has found that many of the features are exactly the same. E. The two most important features of a face are the corners of the eyes and the mouth. If you look at the painting, you will see that these features are blurred – they are much less clear than the rest of the face. As a result, the viewer has to imagine what the Mona Lisa is thinking. The mystery of her smile is just a bit of clever artistic technique.
