Alice: Hey, Tom! Long time no see, how are you?

Tom: Alice, what a pleasant surprise! I am doing great, what about yourself?

Alice: I'm well, too. What have you been doing all this time?

Tom: Well, I've been studying at a boarding school in Oxford.

Alice: Wow, it's not the famous one for boys, is it?

Tom: Yes, that's the one.

Alice: How do you like it? How is it different from our old school?

Tom: I like it ok. The studies are very rigorous. We have five classes a day before lunch and four after we eat. Of course, one of the classes each day is a sport but it's still a rather hard day.

Alice: Sounds intense, if you ask me. Do they give you homework, too?

Tom: Well, some. We usually have reading for our lit classes and homework in foreign languages – some vocabulary learning and grammar exercises.

Alice: How many foreign languages are you studying?

Tom: Two modern languages and Latin. You have a choice of foreign languages: French, Spanish, Arabic and Chinese. Latin is compulsory.

Alice: Which ones are you taking right now? I think I'd go for Arabic and Chinese since those are really popular these days.

Tom: I am studying Chinese and French. You see, my Dad has a business in France, so if I ever decide to follow in his steps, I'll definitely need French. And Arabic, as you say, is very popular nowadays.

Alice: With all that studying do you ever have fun? Have you made any good friends?

Tom: Of course, I have! I've got a small circle of close friends, three boys we hang out with. At weekends we have some free time to play games, go for walks or into town.

Alice: That's good. What do you do when you go into town? I've been to Oxford and there isn't much to do there it seems.

Tom: Are you kidding? There is a nice cinema complex there and a shopping centre. There are also some nice coffee shops and cheap restaurants. There is one coffee place that has a poetry contest every Saturday night where anyone can have stage time to recite their poetry. So, we do that with friends.

Alice: Are you serious? You recite poetry for fun? You even write your own poetry? That's pretty amazing. You were always into books, so I guess this school is a good match for you.

Tom: It really is. I'm rather happy here. The only drawback is that I don't see my parents during the term, only on holidays and sometimes they come up to see me at weekends.

Now we are ready to start.

Peter: Hi, Lucy! You weren't at school today. What is the matter? I was worried about you.

Lucy: Hi, Peter. It's nothing serious, actually. I just felt a bit sick in the morning, so my mom let me stay at home.

Peter: You poor thing! And are you feeling better now?

Lucy: Yeah, much better, thank you. I guess it must have been the pizza that I ate yesterday. That was the reason for my bad stomachache. I had too much. But now, yeah, I feel all right. I think I won't have to miss any more lessons this week.

Peter: But you haven't been to the doctor's office, have you? Won't you have problems at school because you missed classes? When I was ill last month, I brought a medical certificate to school.

Lucy: Well, my mom called our class teacher, so I don't think there will be any problems. Besides we don't have many lessons on Wednesdays. How was Geography, by the way? Did you take a test?

Peter: Oh, no, we didn't, but we revised the material for the test. The teacher asked several people to do exercises with the map of the UK at the blackboard, and then we had a sort of contest in groups where we had to find different mountains, rivers and lakes - the quicker the better, that was fun! And we also checked our homework and asked the teacher questions if we were not sure about the answers. You know, I feel well-prepared for tomorrow's test now.

Lucy: Wait a second! Are we going to take the test tomorrow? I can't believe it!

Peter: Yes, our teacher said that we are starting a new topic next week, so we have to finish this one tomorrow. Do you need any help with geography?

Lucy: Uh, if you can lend me your exercise-book with notes and checked homework, that would save me hours.

Peter: I am afraid I can't give you my exercise-book right now because I have to revise the material for the test myself. But if you call me in two hours, we could probably study for the test together.

Lucy: Sounds like a great idea. And thanks so much for offering to help. It's so nice to have a friend like you.

Peter: No problem. See you later then. Bye for now.

Lucy: Bye, Peter.

You have 15 seconds to complete the task. (Pause 15 seconds.)

Now you'll hear the text again. (Repeat.)

This is the end of the task. You now have 15 seconds to check your answers.

(Pause 15 seconds.)

Anna: Hi, Ben! How was school today?

Ben: Hey, Anna! School was alright. How are you?

Anna: I've got such exciting news, Ben! You won't believe it!

Ben: What is it, Anna? I hope it's good!

Anna: Mum and Dad are taking us to Disneyworld in Florida in June, after school is out!

Ben: Disneyworld? Are you serious? Which part of it should I be excited about?

Anna: Oh, Ben! All of it! We'll see the Magic Kingdom and stay in a hotel there for three days!

Ben: Anna, don't you think we are just a bit old for that? When was the last time we watched a cartoon?

Anna: Come on, Ben! There've been really awesome cartoons lately. I've watched them all, it's not my fault you've refused to go see them with me. Remember I went with mum and dad to the cinema when "Cars" was playing and not too long ago it was "How to Train Your Dragon"? Why didn't you go?

Ben: That would've been really embarrassing, Anna!

Anna: But why? When I go with my friends, half of the audience is adults!

Ben: Hah! Of course, they are. They bring their kids to see the cartoon.

Anna: Not always. I've seen couples alone, without kids. Last time a new big screen cartoon came out, Mum and Dad went to see it on their date night, remember?

Ben: Well, ok, but we aren't adults. We are teens, and teens don't watch kids' movies. We like to watch action films and horror films not some children's stories about toys or fairy tale characters.

Anna: You can't be right! My friends watch cartoons all the time! Especially those in a series like the Simpsons and Futurama. Those are not for children at all, if you ask me.

Ben: You have a point there. I watch those with my pals all the time. Those are made for more grown up audiences. But Disney?

Anna: They do some serious stuff nowadays, and you know it. They have state-of the art technology to make great films. Sometimes it's even hard to tell it's an animated film, it is so good. Sometimes you forget there are no real actors in cartoons. Admit it, Ben, you are just being stubborn! Now you are excited to go to Florida as much as I am!

Ben: Florida does sound like fun after all. I guess it's ok that we are going to Disneyworld but only if I get to see those famous mouse characters - Mickey and Minny ...

Anna: Oh, Ben ...
